Third Sunday of Easter

In today's Gospel, the two disciples on the Road to Emmaus dismiss as a "tale" what the woman said about seeing an angel at the empty tomb.

There are angels at every important point in Jesus' life: the angel Gabriel appears to Mary at the Annunciation, Gabriel appears to Joseph to tell him to marry Mary and to name the baby "Jesus", angels appears to the shepherds, an angel warns Joseph to flee to Egypt to save Jesus' life, angels comfort Jesus after his temptations in the wilderness, angels comfort Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane, and at the Resurrection angels open the tomb and fold up the grave clothes and appear to the women. Angels are not extras or afterthoughts—they are God's messengers and servants.

We each have a guardian angel that works invisibly in our life. How often do we even think to thank him?

On The Lighter Side

Some saints were given the extraordinary privilege of actually seeing and conversing with their guardian angels.

Padre Pio was in regular communication not only with his own guardian angel, but also with other guardian angels, who informed him when their humans were in need of prayer.

Once, when a spiritual child of Pio's named Cecil was injured in a car accident, Cecil's friend decided to send a telegram to Padre Pio to ask for his prayers. But when this friend went to the telegram desk to send the message, a telegram was given to him. Padre Pio already knew about the accident and promised his prayers for Cecil. When later asked how he had known, the good Padre said, "Do you think the angels go as slowly as the planes?"
